

Press Release

PNG Cancer Foundation support Team PNG at Team Bonding event

The Papua New Guinea Cancer Foundation (PNGCF) was invited to be a part of the Team PNG Bonding Program on Sunday, 19th May at the Boroko East International School.

The program was organised by the PNG Pacific Games Association and PNG Olympic Committee to instill positive values on lifestyle and building healthy relationships among the Team PNG athletes.

PNGCF was present at the Team Bonding event to conduct cancer prevention and education workshops throughout the program on the day. The workshops were conducted to raise the awareness among the Team PNG community on importance of making healthy lifestyle choices to reduce their cancer risk in the future.

The program involved interactive question and answer sessions that allowed for the participants to engage with the PNGCF Health Educator, Ms Loyla Mathew who presented workshops on making healthy lifestyle choices to reduce risk of getting cancer and other diseases. Over 100 athletes and officials participated in the program.

More than 300 Information, Education and Communication materials (Brochures) were distributed among the participants.

PNGCF would like to thank Team PNG for joining the fight against cancer in PNG and the Pacific Games Association for providing this avenue to reach out to the athletes.

PNG Cancer Foundation would also like to thank other supporters ExxonMobil PNG, Oil Search, Moore Printing, US Embassy, Remington Group and Airswift for joining the fight against cancer in PNG.

The PNG Cancer Foundation would also like to wish Team PNG all the best in the South Pacific Games – Samoa this year!

Protect your future from cancer. Don't Chew Betel Nut Don't Smoke. Reduce Alcohol. Eat Healthy & Exercise Regularly.

End of Press Release